Domenico Clerico's small estate is situated in Monforte d'Alba, right in the heart of Barolo. Domenico Clerico is one of the most respected names in all Barolo, and his wines are renowned for both winemaking of the highest quality and for their exceptional expression of terroir, derived from outstanding vineyard holdings in four of the greatest crus of Monforte: Ginestra, Bussia, Pajana and Mosconi.

"One of the most gifted winemakers in Piedmont...these are wines of extraordinary richness, amazing aromatics, and sensual personalities that satiate both the hedonistic and the intellectual senses." - Robert Parker, Jr.

Owner Domenico Clerico basically taught himself how to make wine. He says, "I had my own ideas but I was a good friend of Angelo Gaja and so I listened to what my friends were saying about winemaking. I had the passion to do it and took what people told me and made it work." At the end of the day, wine is about passion!!

Mahi Marlborough Sauvignon Blanc 2013

New Zealand, Martinborough ~~$160~~ $133/btl

With plenty of international winemaking experience under his belt, Brian Bicknell made his dreams come true when launching Mahi Wines in 2006. Hand-harvested, the Sauvignon Blanc grapes that make up this cuvee are from nine distinct vineyards in this vintage. A small portion of the wine is barrel-aged for added texture and dimension.

Rounded, mouthfilling with an almost creamy texture in the mouth the 2013 Mahi Sauvignon Blanc has all the classic Sauvignon Blanc flavours; grassiness, stone fruit, but its restrained and balanced, with a complexity rarely found in Sauvignon Blanc. It also has an incredible length of flavour that makes it stand out from the vast majority of Marlborough Sauvignon Blanc currently around.

WS 87: "Smooth and succulent, offering a mix of citrus zest and nectarine flavors and floral aromatics, with a very juicy finish"
