

Dear Large Format Wine Lovers and Users ,

It is a known fact that wine from larger format wine bottles age more slowly, and possibly even develop more complexity and nuances than wines from smaller wine bottle sizes. This is due to the smaller amount of air (oxygen and sulphur dioxide) that resides between the cork and the wine. The surface to air ratio between the wine and the bottom of the cork is called ullage. The amount of ullage can either oxidize the wine, causing it to age prematurely, or develop at a slower pace of maturity. This means that if you're planning on buy an old bottle of wine, or aging a wine for few couples of years, the wine will most likely be better if it was aged in a large format bottle. Plus, large format wine bottles also look impressive on the dinner table!

Red Bordeaux

Haut Bergey Rouge 2005 (1.5L)

Wine Advocate 90: "Charcoal, espresso roast, blackcurrants and spice are all present in this medium-bodied, nicely concentrated, relatively evolved and precocious Haut-Bergey, which is just now attaining its plateau of maturity. Soft tannins and an attractive plushness are followed by a wine capable of drinking well for another decade or more."

$680/ btl BUY *ONLY at $340 per 750ml

Tourelles de Longueville 2009 (1.5L)

Wine Spectator 91: "A polished, fleshy, forward style, with velvety-textured notes of crushed plum, fig sauce and mulled cherry fruit laced with sweet spice and cocoa hints. A licorice edge drives the finish along. Drink now through 2018. 10,000 cases made."
