

We have an interesting and limited offer of wines from Ao Yun (China) and Tomi No Oka (Japan) winery. Ao Yun is the 1st cult winery, extremely limited in production of 24000 bottles only for 1st launched vintage in 2013. Highly situated in 6800 meters of Meili Mountain in Shangrila, Yunnan province, Ao Yun is the most sought after red wine, made with a blend of 90% Cabernet Sauvignon and 10% Cabernet Franc. Another highlight is Tomi No Oka Winery owned by Suntory, a world acclaimed Japanese wine that received more spotlight and recognition recently.

1st Luxury Cult Wine from China – only 24,000 bottles produced !!!

敖云 Ao Yun 2013

From the “Roof of the World” –
Shangri-La

Next to Meili Mountain that crests at 6,800m, this is blessed territory, the most sacred of peaks in the region. Here, mountains appear covered in gold as the sun rises, while clouds roll like so many veils, shrouding the tops in mystery. The epicenter of Chinese biodiversity, this plateau - the world's highest and largest- teems with miraculous life.

With strong sunlight, mild winters and low disease risk caused by summer rain, this is without doubt for unparalleled Cabernet Sauvignon.

Appearance: An intense, deep dark colour.

Nose: Several layers of aromas that develop subtly, intertwining and evolving during the tasting. Intense red fruit, cassis, cherry which evolve to dark currant, spices, mint, tea leaves, mild tobacco.

Palate: Exuberant ripe red fruit, cherry stone, with a touch of spiciness, mild tobacco and minerality, with captivating and penetrating flavors.

Finish: The wine is light with fine, supple and silky tannins. A lingering red fruit finish with very precise, chiseled tannins. A very harmonious, sophisticated, delicate wine with a long finish.
